BORAH TELLS BOSTON TO SUPPORT SOVIET

Urges Recognition by U. S. at Meeting Arranged by Prof. Frankfurter.

APPEAL TO CONGRESS

Speaker Says Russia Is Key to Solution of Whole European Situation.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.

Boston, Dec. 2.—Senator William E. Borah's fervent appeal for the recognition of the Russian Soviet Republic by the United States won repeated applause and occasional cheers from 2,500 men and women in Symphony Hall to-night.

Resolutions calling upon Congress and the President to take steps toward the recognition of the Soviet were read and the audience registered its approval.

Senator Borah tried to justify his arguments, based on political, commercial and humanitarian grounds, with quotations from trade and financial sources. He emphasized that the French revolution was recognized by the American Government under Washington.

There was laughter when the Senator told of a warning he had received that he was facing the order of addressing "the most conservative gathering under the American flag." He said he thought Bostonians acted "quite human."

The most cheering came when the Senator assured his audience there had never been an hour since the fall of the old regime that he had not wished well for the Russian revolution. "And you can make the most of it," he said.

Prof. Felix Frankfurter of the Harvard Law School was chairman of the committee under whose auspices Senator Borah spoke.

Senator Borah said in part: "Upon what theory can you restore and reconstruct the shattered fabric of Europe with one of the great nations an outlaw? What policy have the nations to present for the restoration of Europe which leaves out Russia? What program do they offer to the countless millions in Europe to-night who are being to be protected from disease and hunger and misery?"

"Not only, my friends, is it necessary for Europe, but it is also in a large measure a starting point of a return to normalcy—which seems a little belated in this Administration—in this country. We have passed a tariff bill and put thirty cents on wheat."

"Our distinguished Secretary of Commerce, Mr. Hoover, has said that we do not trade with Russia, therefore why should we be anxious to recognize the Government of Russia? We do not trade with Russia a great deal, although I observed the other day that a Russian organization had purchased 50,000 bales of cotton from the South, for which it paid $6,000,000. I was told by a business man in New York last night that he sold a large order of goods to Russia, although he had to sell it through an English merchant."

"If I may be permitted to say so, our international affairs are not saturated with fear, suspicion and intolerance, and of late with a spirit apparently of vengeance. Just in proportion as we eliminate these elements from our international affairs shall we come to enjoy peace and the world will again recur to the conditions which obtained prior to the great conflict. So long as we pursue the policy which has characterized international affairs in so large a measure since the signing of the armistice we shall not be able to restore peace or bring happiness or prosperity to the countless millions who are now suffering."

"But while the world wants peace and wants the great burden of armaments lifted it is impossible to make progress under the policies which now obtain, and you cannot have peace in Europe, you cannot return to normalcy in Europe, you cannot lift the burden of armaments in Europe until the Russian question is settled. It is the key to the great problem of restoring peace throughout the continent of Europe. This was recognized at Genoa. It is recognized by the leaders of Europe and ought to be recognized by the leaders of this country."

"We are confronted at once with the proposition that Russia has a form of government in which we do not believe. We are told, in today's papers particularly, that the cruelties and the hideous crimes committed by the Lenin Government make it impossible for orderly people to consider the question of recognition. I said a moment ago that our recognition of Russia is neither an approval nor a disapproval of their form of government, and I repeat that it has nothing to do with the practices of that government except in so far as they touch or relate to international affairs. Let me read to you a single line from Washington's letter as to why he recognized the Government of the French Revolution, for he said, 'My attitude may be summed up in a few words, that I have always wished, well to the French revolution.'"

"I have always given it as my decided opinion that no nation has a right to intermeddle in the internal concerns of another, and that every one has a right to form and adopt whatever government they like to live under themselves."

OUSTED FROM SING SING BY WIFE OF WARDEN

State Officers, It Is Contended, Abused Hospitality.

An efficiency expert employed by the State, who has been staying for several weeks in the home of Major Lewis E. Lawes, warden of Sing Sing, was asked yesterday by Mrs. Lawes to leave the house, as he had overstayed what ever welcome he may have had at the beginning. The efficiency expert got into his automobile and moved to a hotel, where he will remain until his business at the prison is finished.

Mrs. Lawes made it plain that she felt this man had abused the privileges of free board and lodging extended to State officials whose business requires them to stay overnight. There is an annual appropriation of $2,000 to cover such expenses.

Visitors at the Lawes home, a four-story house adjoining the prison, have been so numerous and so expensive that the warden frequently has had to make up the deficit. One month he had to pay $70.

On one occasion a man arrived at the prison gates with twenty-one guests and invited them to have luncheon in the home of the warden.

CATHOLICS ATTENDING NOVENAS IN CHURCHES

Archbishop to Pontificate at Cathedral Friday.

Roman Catholics here are displaying interest in novenas, or nine day services of prayer, in progress in some of the churches in preparation for the feast of the Immaculate Conception of the Blessed Virgin Mary, which falls next Friday. It is a holy day of obligation, in commemoration of which Archbishop Hayes will pontificate at mass in St. Patrick's Cathedral.

One of the prominent churches conducting a novena is that of St. Ignatius Loyola, Park avenue and Eighty-fourth street. The exercises are held twice each day, afternoon and evening. The latter service is under the direction of the Rev. P. J. Casey, S. J., formerly rector of St. Francis Xavier's Church, West Sixteenth street.

GIRL HURT BY MOTOR MARRIES IN HOSPITAL

Miss Minnie Wolpers, who has been in the Ossining Hospital from injuries sustained two weeks ago when she was struck by an automobile, and Thomas Gallant, who is connected with the Water Department of New York city, were married Thanksgiving night as the bride lay in bed. They planned to have the wedding at the home of the bride in Hawthorne on Thanksgiving Day. Miss Wolpers resolved that the marriage should be performed according to schedule, and Mr. Gallant went to the hospital Thursday night with a Hawthorne minister and the nuptial knot was tied in the presence of a few attendants.
